General Practitioner Clinics

We have three general practitioners who have a special interest in women's health. We work with women and girls aged 12 years and over, from a holistic and from a preventative or early-intervention perspective. We provide services to women within the context of women's family situations and life.

The General Practitioners are -:

Dr Colette Hourigan
Dr Dianne Carroll and
Dr Rosa Canalese

The doctors see women for the range of women's health issues including:

- Sexual and gynaecological health
- Pap smears
- Breast checks
- Sexually transmitted infections
- Pregnancy
- Fertility and contraception
- Menopause
- Depression and anxiety
- Eating disorders
- Weight issues and nutrition including heart health and diabetes prevention

Our doctor's role will be to work with you on specific women's health matters. We recommend that women wanting to see our doctors still have their own local GP for problems like the flu and injuries.
